

NEASC ACCREDITATION FOR CSS: ANOTHER MILESTONE

Corona Secondary School, (CSS), Agbara, Ogun State, has successfully secured accreditation by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, (NEASC), based in New England, United States of America. The school made history by becoming the first secondary school in Nigeria and one of only four select schools in Africa to be accredited by the internationally acclaimed body. The accreditation process was rigorous, comprehensive and thorough.

With the accreditation, our facilities, practices, processes and procedures are certified as meeting international standards. The accreditation will strengthen the resolve of academic and non-academic units to continue to providing world-class education to our highly valued students.

In addition, the academic transcripts of our students will have a greater global appeal. Besides enhancing the academic reputation of our faculty, accreditation by the internationally renowned body will in part serve to CSS expose our staff to international best practices in the field of education. The result is rise in standards, improvements in professionalism greater excellence in service delivery. Our joining the association, faculty at Corona Secondary School are well positioned to readily engage in the peer review of other NEASC accredited schools.

NEASC was established as an independent, voluntary, non-profit membership organization which connects and serves over 2000 public and independent schools, technical and career institutions, colleges and universities in New England and around the world. Accreditation by NEASC attest to our commitment to setting the pace and leading the way in the provision of quality secondary education in Nigeria.
